be wondered at that under-graduates, who are notorious for their love of mythological matters, should find themselves attracted to Porter's, and there refresh their reminiscences of Olympus with draughts of the divine beverage. In fact, such was their devotion this branch of classical study, and so inspired did they frequently get-inspired even to the Py thonic pitch of being unintelligible in their speech-that the matter attracted the attention of the President of the college, a venerable gentleman of theperiod. whose name I have forgotten. Heartles and ignorant persons, entirely misconceiving the spirit in which the under-graduates visited Porter's reported to this worthy person that the students were in the habit of getting drunk every night on flip. It must be seen to. The President puts on his most authoritative wig and sternest countenance, and CROCKERY FOR THE MILLION sallies out to blow up the classical Porter. for leading his students astray. First of all, be thinks, in order be able to speak more decisively, that he will taste this noxious beverage with his own lips. Then there can be no mistake. With much sur dignity he enters Porter's. He is greeted with respect. He interrogates Por-

Porter, whose sang froid has never for a moment forsaken him, deploys all the resources of his art,

Presently a superhuman flip, with an aromatic foam which Venus might have risen from, creaming over the edge of the goblet, is the result of his efforts. He hands it respectfully, and with some anxiety, to the President, on whose face ing. The President tastes it gloomily. He pauses. Another sip. The thunder-clouds have not yet flashed forth any lightnings. The President gazes wonlient expression seems to glide over his face and smooth the frowning brows .to dawn. He lifts the glass once more to his lips, heaves a sigh, and puts it down. It is empty!

"Mr. Porter," he says, "the students get drunk on this, sir!"

Porter sees that the storm is passed, and boldly answers in the affirmative. ing gravely away, "sir, I don't wonder at

So much has been said against the democratic press, for calling the republican party an abolition party, that we cheer-fully give place to any correction of such an error, to the white republicans. The Saginaw Enterprise, being a paper which claims to stand on true white republican ground rnd reflect true white republican sentiments, gives its readers the following calm and cool opinion of the rights of the south and the duty of the north.

Stevens and Haslet, will probably be turned over to the Federal authorities for trial. If the people of the North felt as they ought to feel about these murders, they would never have taken place. MACHINE POETRY -- A LA HIAWATHA. Here's the place to to buy your toggery, Here's the place to to buy your toggery,
Buy your vests and buy your breeches,
Buy your shirts and fancy fixings,
Buy your caps and buy your chapeaux,
Buy your garments big and little,
Hat as high as any steeple,
Or as low as is the bayou,
All goods sold as lower lower than the lowest,
Retail dealer in this region,
Dares to sell his traps and plunder, Orassottion, "stand from unider." Dares to seil his traps and plunder, Opposition, "stand from under?"
Marks is he as who can paddle
His own good ship, his own staunch booker,
Bosts and shoes for gents and ladies,
Children and youth and little babies,
Marks has, and he is bound to sell 'em
Cheaper than the other traders,
Who can only barely, waddle,
While hell 'time see you mak hadddle'." Who can only barely, waddle,
While he'll "just get up and kadaddle,"
Work to windward of the squadron,
For he carries piles of canvax,
And "goes in" upon his musele.
Come along or send your orders.
For goods that came by the Kaloolah,
Goods that come v-i-a Goderich,
That's the route to bring you freight on,
Always sound and always certain. Always sound and always certain Far across the raging Huron, But the God of navigation Likes the style of the Kaloolah, Likes her owners and her captain And he blesses every package, Every box and every barrel, That comes that way, most truly.
